

Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 10 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Persistent widespread rain with increasingly strong winds. Milder than recently.

Today:

A dull start to a wet and windy day, with persistent rain, heavy at times, and coastal gales. Despite the milder temperatures, it will feel cool in the strong, blustery winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:

Further wet and windy weather, with coastal severe gales and risk of inland gales overnight. Widespread showery downpours are likely to accompany stronger gusts. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Thursday:

Unsettled with strong winds and frequent showers with risk of hail, although a good chance to see dry spells and clear skies at times. Feeling cool in the strong breeze. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

Unsettled days ahead, with frequent, heavy, blustery showers throughout this period, with the risk of hail at times, easing slightly on Sunday. Strong winds throughout with gales likely.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.